altii events

Onsite Event &
Live-streaming

The Topics

Sustainable asset allocation for Institutional Investors in DACH

Legal requirements and the risk of greenwashing

The importance of transparency towards stakeholders

The technical aspects of underlying concepts, e.g., water and circular concepts

The importance of biodiversity as a holistic approach

The Objective

Investing from a sustainability perspective has become a clear trend with the implementation of the legal requirements that are currently being clarified. This makes it all the more important to implement the legal requirements in a credible manner and to prevent greenwashing.

Prudent portfolio alignment and transparency are basic requirements for success. But the technical realities of the underlying projects, e.g., in terms of a circular economy, are also critical and require a profound understanding.

The expert panel of capital market professionals and allocators will discuss these aspects and provide clear recommendations for capital allocation and implementation. To also give sustainability an overarching meaning, the panel will attach importance to the preservation of biodiversity on our planet and support a holistic approach.
